

Mary Chaiken, PhD

After retiring from a career as a cancer researcher, Mary has devoted herself to her first love: music. As a young person growing up in Bethesda, Maryland, Mary studied classical guitar, piano and cello (not to mention ballet, tap and jazz dance). She discovered choral singing in high school, and has been singing ever since. Mary has been a member of MUSE, Cincinnati's Women's Choir since 2000, and is currently serving as president of the MUSE board of directors.

Mary is excited to be able to make the joy of music-making more available to adults in the Cincinnati area through the Cincinnati Center for Adult Music Study.
